Council Fire Committee and Brigade Hold Meeting

On February 20th the Coleman Volunteer Fire Brigade met with the Coleman Town Council Fire Committee, under the chairmanship of M. Cornett.

All the pros and cons concerning the fire department were thoroughly discussed to the satisfaction of the fire chief and committee.

All the volunteer firemen were present at the meeting. Also present was Major Jack Ostash, Councilors J. Holyk and R. Seymour. Mayor Ostash informed the fire brigade that the council was prepared to co-operate with the fire department at all times. It was his wish that all matters pertaining to the town of Coleman and surrounding district could be sensibly solved by the committee or the council as a whole.

Councilor Cornett informed the fire brigade that any time they had a problem to bring it to the fire committee's attention, and the committee would deal with the matter or make certain it came before the council.

It was pointed out the fire brigade always did have and always will have the privilege of meeting the council on any issue or a representative elected by them.

A set of by-laws were drawn up to be presented at the next council meeting for approval. These by-laws were readily accepted by the fire committee and the fire brigade as a whole.

Fire Chief John Kinnear was given special mention along with the brigade for their fine work, and coming to the town's assistance when Coleman was desperately in need of their help.

Council felt it is time that the people of the town of Coleman and surrounding district show appreciation for the work this brigade is doing on their behalf. It is noted with pleasure that mention is being made by the Chief Fire Officers of the province of the fine work done by the Coleman Volunteer Fire Department.

It was also suggested that when these by-laws have been finalized and accepted by the town council and the fire chief they shall be made public and each fireman will receive a copy of them.

It was indicated at the close of the meeting that Mayor Ostash and the committee along with the fire chief and brigade were well pleased and satisfied with the outcome of the meeting.

FIVE AND A HALF YEAR OLD JANICE EARL IS ALBERTA'S 1964 EASTER SEAL 'TAMMY'

This year's "Tammy" is Janice Lynn Earl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Earl of 10526 - 85th avenue in Edmonton.

At birth little hope was held out that Janice would live. Her entire body from the hips down was paralyzed; she had the crippling disease known as spina bifida.

Up until a few weeks ago she pulled herself around on the floor on her strong young arms, or she was carried in the arms of her parents. Today she can move at will in her wheel chair, made possible through the purchase of Easter Seals.

It is because of her courage, appealing personality, and her hope for a happier tomorrow that she was chosen as the human symbol in the annual Easter Seal drive to aid all of Alberta's crippled and handicapped children.

When she was told that she was to be Alberta's Easter Seal "Tammy" for 1964 and presented with a wheel chair, she said hopefully, "some day I'm going to get my crutches."

It now falls upon the Easter Seal Fund of our province to provide the healing services for hundreds of young children, like Janice Earl... their greatest hope for health and happiness in the future. All Albertans are asked to heed the voice of their appeal.

Coleman School Will Adopt Uniform Closing Hours

The topic of transporting children from the west end of the Coleman school district to schools in Coleman, was thoroughly discussed at the regular meeting of the Coleman School Board held on February 13.

As a result of this discussion it was decided that commencing in September of 1964, the school at Coleman would have the same hours of opening and closing on Fridays as for the rest of the days of the week. This would mean that the 3 p.m. closing on Friday would be abandoned in favor of a uniform closing time for the entire week.

The annual reports given at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Crow's Nest Pass Municipal Hospital showed a most successful year for 1963, in both finance and general accomplishments.

In March a successful bake sale was held in Simpson's-Sears in Blairmore. The purchase of cigarette vending machine which was installed in the hospital waiting room in May, proved very worthwhile.

In September, Mrs. Lloyd Williams made a presentation of the Ladies' Auxiliary Scholarship to Miss Carolyn Zerkow at the Isabelle Selton high school in Blairmore.

Contributions to the Children's Ward included a playpen, toy chair and two chrome high chairs for the younger patients.

During the year hospital patients were remembered with gifts on Mother's Day, Father's Day, Easter and Christmas.

The display case in charge of Mrs. Fred Padgett held a good supply of knitted goods throughout the year; a total of 79 knitted baby garments including 41 three-piece outfits, as well as five pairs of TV slippers and 28 novelty dolls, had been for sale.

The sewing sessions, convened by Mrs. J. Christie, took care of the mending of hospital linen and apparel and the sewing of new material for hospital use.

A total of 911 items were mended and 307 new articles were sewn during the past year. An average of two sewing meetings per month were held, attended by 10 members each time.

Membership for 1963 showed an enrollment of 28 members.

Mrs. Williams as president, expressed appreciation for all the help and co-operation given to the Auxiliary in making their past term a successful one.

OF MANY THINGS
(By Ambrose Hills)Two Kinds of Money

There is an old saying that it takes money to make money. That is partly true; it takes money and a willingness to risk it, and to work like old Ned to make it worth the risk. A friend of mine just started a business in one of Manitoba's best small towns. — It was a dream he had nursed along for many years. Here is how he finally made it come true.

He worked in the same establishment I worked in when we were young fellows. We were married the same year. His salary was about the same as mine. But he handled his money differently.

He and his wife agreed that they would spend a certain amount out of each cheque, and the rest would go into a savings account. Each time the account was big enough to buy a block of shares in some good company, they would make the purchase.

This may not sound too different to some of you; but to most of us on the staff at that organization, it was a new concept. For this chap and his wife spent their 'spending' money much more freely than the rest of us. They were often broke before pay-day. But they seemed to enjoy their spending. They had, as it seemed, a feeling of confidence because they never ever dreamed of touching that part of their cheque which was 'NOT' spending money. It was in the bank, or in stock certificates.

True, there were shows they didn't go to, things they couldn't do... once that spending money had been dissipated. But the 'saving' money was there, untouched.

I am quite sure that many of us from that original group of young employees have earned more cash over the years than this couple. They, however, accumulated more than any of us, into a pool with which they could actually do something they really wanted to do. And at the same time, they seemed to enjoy spending more than most of us did, because the money they did spend was meant for that.

So one small town has a mighty fine new business, which has added a number of young people to the ranks of the gainfully employed; and one middle-aged couple has a business they've always dreamed of having, in a town they have always admired.

If you would like to do the same kind of thing, classify your money — a set amount for spending, a set amount for saving. And never get the two kinds of money mixed up.

ARE PARENTS NOT INTERESTED?

Apparently the parents of school children in Coleman are not interested in discussing pertinent problems regarding these same children. This would seem to be the case when a panel discussion on such a timely topic as "Smoking" was held by the Home and School Association at its last meeting.

An excellent panel of teachers, parents and students presented a most enjoyable and enlightening discussion on this subject — and all of this for an audience of NINE.

It is most discouraging to everyone concerned, in organizing these programs, to have such a lack of interest shown on the part of the parents. There was much valuable information to be gained by attending this meeting.

Previous meetings have been equally as informative, e.g., a well-presented program on the new method of arithmetic in the elementary school, which proved very educational to the interested parents who did attend.

Parents have a great many problems in common and with discussions, many of these problems can often be minimized and very often solved in a satisfactory manner.

But, this is only possible if there is more co-operation and interest on the part of the parents.

An Interested Member of the Home and School.

Coarse charcoal use saves containers

Aging of containers and the plants they contain may be prevented with a little extra care.

Sturdy container bottoms need not rot promptly and their plants grow ugly and sick from clogged drainage, from "wet feet" and smothering of bottom roots.

Actually, these roots in the container bottom should be the best and safest from injury, for they are in a location that is the last to be hurt by drought heat.

Traditionally, gardeners have covered the container bottom with coarse gravel, shards, clinkers or something coarse and open, for fast escape of excess water.

This layer is usually covered with something to keep the soil out of it when the container is filled.

In this operation the trouble has been doubled. First, cinder-clinkers are hard to find. Shards are expensive and gravel is heavy to carry and often remote in its source.

An amateur gardener has solved this problem brilliantly.

What could be better or easier than to carry a few bags of charcoal from any hardware or department store?

She finds this material very effective, but avoids charcoal briquettes, using the chunky kind, which is more porous, air-filled, and lighter to carry than pressed briquettes.

SOFT DRINKS HELP KEEP YOU HEALTHY

Camels don't have drinking problems to the same extent as humans.

In fact, at certain times of the year, a camel doesn't have to touch a drop for months at a time. But a human needs 4½ pints of water every day the whole year 'round.

Camels, of course, have a larger reservoir than humans and this helps them get over the "hump" more readily than people. People, however, have developed their own ways of beating the thirst barrier and one of the favorites of these is a refreshing soft drink.

By weight, the human body is 72 percent water. Because of this, we are able to lose a few pounds quickly by "sweating out" any excess water in our bodies — just as jockeys and boxers do — but for general fitness the body's water content should never be allowed to fall below the normal 72 percent level.

You get thirsty because your body is consuming water all the time, day in, day out. The average loss is about 4½ pints every 24 hours and this is the amount that must be replaced daily. Water is second only to oxygen in importance to the body's well being.

Thirst is the body's reminder to you that there is a water-deficiency to be made good — that it's time you took a drink. There isn't any more pleasant way to make up for that deficiency than by having a cool, refreshing glass of a sparkling soft drink.

Books Need Care to Prolong Life and Beauty

In proportion to the pleasure they give, books make few demands on the home-maker's time and energy.

A minimum of care will protect their life and beauty.

Start by filling each book-case shelf just enough to prevent the books from leaning on each other, while avoiding friction from crowding. Arrange them according to height.

Books, like people, react to humidity. Too much dampness fosters mildew and overly dry air causes pages and covers to become brittle. If there is mildew, apply alcohol promptly and it will generally remove it.

To counteract dryness, keep a wet sponge in a copper bowl under the book-case. Various lanolin base oils can be used to keep a leather cover from drying.

Plain household grime also is an enemy of books. Simple, but regular cleaning can prevent damage — destroyed texture and color.

The first step—dust a cloth or leather binding thoroughly. Then sponge the cover quickly with thick 'dry' soap or detergent suds. If necessary, sponge off individual pages the same way.

Wipe with a clean, damp cloth. Then with a dry cloth and stand the book on end until completely dry. Don't pile just washed books atop one another. Squeeze the sucking cloth out of clear water often to avoid transplanting soil from one book to another.

When covers are thoroughly dry, a thin coat of wax and brisk polishing with a soft cloth will add lustre. A good lacquer, available at book-binding supply houses, prevents cloth binding from fading.

Evergreens Add Beauty And Color to Home

Since no planting or landscaping of home grounds is complete without evergreens, it should be worth while to outline for home-owners the wide range of these plants.

But summer and winter, evergreen plants add color on the home grounds.

Most of the pines have magnificent appearance all year long. Many pines make beautiful, tall hedges or attractive specimen plants.

For hedges, too, one must consider hemlock, which can be sheared low, or allowed to grow in lovely semi-weeping form.

Hemlocks and pines are very desirable for high, all-year screening purposes.

Arborescences, too, have traditionally been used both for hedges and single specimen plants.

Broad leaved evergreens are fewer in the north than in the warmer climates.

Included in the temperate zone are the rhododendrons, hollies, euonymus species, pieris, certain barberry and ligustrum species, and a few others, including laurels and similar plants.

Home owners should investigate the wealth of needed and broad-leaved evergreens available from nurseries to enhance the beauty of the home grounds all year long. Members of the nursery association are authorities on such plants.

National Employment Service News

Q—If I work part time, am I insurable?

A—Yes, but if you are not ordinarily employed in insurable employment, you may claim exemption by lodging a declaration to this effect with your employer in certain employments specified in the Regulations of the Commission. These include employment for not more than 24 hours a week, employment in food canning and processing, and several others. Consult your local office.

Q—How am I to know what contributions are being recorded in my insurance book?

A—You have the right to examine your book of contribution record at a time convenient to your employer, but not often more than twice a month. When you leave a job make sure you get your book and look at it to see that the contributions are properly recorded up to and including the week you leave. If you find that your employer has not put stamps in your book as required, or that stamps have been placed in error in your book, or that the record is wrong, check with your employer. If need be consult your union, and finally, if necessary, report to the local office.

Q—Where do the contributions go?

A—Contributions (yours and your employer's) are placed in the Unemployment Insurance Fund. To this the Federal government adds one-fifth of the total amount contributed by employers and employees. The fund may be used only for the payment of benefits. The government pays operating costs, such as upkeep of Commission offices and salaries of employees.

He's Good and HOWE!!

TORONTO (cp)—Gordie Howe, hockey's indestructible super-star who has carried Detroit Red Wings on his broad back for years, is Canada's outstanding male athlete for 1963.

The 35-year-old right winger won the honor in the 25th annual Canadian Press year-end poll. He made it by the width of a skate blade in a rousing head-to-head battle with Russ Jackson, his counterpart with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference and poll winner in 1959.

Howe's selection broke the two-year monopoly of Bruce Kidd, Toronto's young track star, whose spiked-shoe career suffered a serious setback from a heel ailment. By late November Kidd was back in shape and won the United States 10,000-metre cross-country championship over a field of 136 at New York.

Kidd, 20-year-old University of Toronto runner, was hoisted to the top in 1961 and 1962 in overwhelming sweeps but this time the selectors — the country's sports editors and sportscasters — didn't even mention him on their ballots.

The 154 voters, just off the record 156 set a year ago, made it a two-man fight between Howe and the 27-year-old Jackson, the Rough Rider quarterback who scored an unprecedented double triumph as the outstanding player and top Canadian in the Canadian Football League.

They were asked to name the three individual performers among men, in order of preference. Computed on a 3-2-1 basis, Howe received 220 points, just five more than Jackson.

Bill Crothers, 23-year-old pharmacist from Toronto, and one of the world's top half-milers, was third with 118 points.

Fourth place went to Bernie Faloney, quarterback with the Greyhound Corporation's Hamilton Tiger Cats, with 72 points. Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks, left winger whose goal production dropped to 31 from a National Hockey League record-equalling 50 in the 1961-62 season, was fifth with 67 points.

Howe, who has spent half of his 35 years in the NHL, and who is tabbed by many competent observers as hockey's all-time great, staked his claim for Athlete-of-the-Year honors last March. This was at a time when many players his age in this tough sport are being consigned to wheel-chairs.

The native of Floral, Sask., ended the 1962-63 season as the league's scoring champion for an unprecedented sixth time with 84 points, built up on 38 goals and 48 assists. More honors were on their way.

He won the Hart Trophy as the NHL's Most Valuable Player, also for a record sixth time, and then captured the right wing spot on the league's first all-star team for the eighth time in his illustrious career.

He had to wait a few months for the big one.

His 38-goal season brought his NHL total to 540, four off the all-time mark of 544 established by the retired Rocket Richard, of Montreal Canadiens. On November 10, and before idolizing fans at Detroit Olympia, he scored Goal No. 545, a milestone he had been aiming at for years.

A total of 21 athletes were mentioned by the selectors and they covered sports ranging from curling and horse riding to gymnastics and figure skating.

Don McPherson, 18-year-old figure skater from Stratford, Ont., won Canada's only title at the world championship in Cortina, Italy, and then turned professional. He was sixth in the CP poll with 52 points.

Next was Willie Weiler, an army physical training instructor, stationed at Camp Borden, Ont., who won three gold medals in the gymnastic competition at the Pan-American Games in Brazil. His point total was 48.

Ernie Richardson of Regina, Sask., skip of the Canadian curling championship rink, that also won the Scotch Cup, emblematic of the world title, caught the eye of two selectors.

Teen-agers

Today's teen-agers are quite a crew.

They stand taller, stronger and healthier.

They run faster, know more, do more homework, get tougher school work.

They're better equipped educationally than any group of teen-agers in the history of the country.

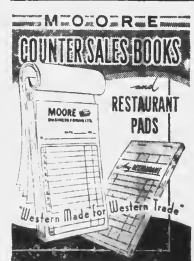

Nature never produces a totally perfect crop of anything.

The next time some teen-agers get out of line and disgrace their group, don't fall into the trap of indicting them all with a sweeping statement that begins "The trouble with teen-agers today is..."

The real trouble with teen-agers is that they have not been around long enough to adjust to this even more complex world.

You have been around at least twice as long and maybe your adjustment isn't so hot, either.

Ten million dollars of the nearly 14 million dollars taken in during the last Irish Sweepstakes came from the U.S.

A Message to the Student

The approach of summer will leave many students with the thought of leaving school. Undoubtedly, teachers and parents have tried to talk students into remaining in school or taking specialized training to prepare them for the world of industry.

It is distressing to note the number of untrained young people unsuccessfully seeking employment in our growing industry where highly skilled jobs are available. It is a well-known fact our unskilled jobs are rapidly disappearing leaving untrained workers facing unemployment and insecurity with little hope of obtaining a reasonable paying job.

If you are undecided, why not discuss the problem with your principal or visit your local National Employment Office where an officer will assist you to make your decision.

Fowle - Rejman Nuptials Observed February 1st

The Holy Ghost Catholic Church was the scene of a pretty double-ring wedding ceremony Saturday, February 1st, when Constance Amelia Rejman, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rejman of Coleman, became the bride of William Francis Fowle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fowle of Saskatoon, Sask.

The bride, who entered the church to the strains of The Wedding March, was escorted down the aisle by her father. She was attired in a white gown of organza with a princess bodice. The skirt was semi-bouffant fitted with a detachable train. Her finger-tip veil fell from a crown of pearls. Her only jewelry was a drop pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Vandi Cozzi of Coleman, as the only attendant of the bride, chose a frock of mauve peau de soie with a pink cummerbund. She wore a matching mauve band in her hair and her bouquet of mauve-tinted carnations enhanced her costume.

Jerry Rejman, brother of the bride, was best man.

Eugene Rejman, a brother of the bride, ushered the guests. Miss Linda Skrzyzala, cousin of the bride, was soloist, and Miss Ralphina DeLuca was organist.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rejman wore a gold brocade dress with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Fowle chose a dress of pink brocade with matching accessories and also wore a corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was centred with a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake which was decorated by Mr. John Wawrean of Coleman.

Miss Linda Skrzyzala was in charge of the guest book. Toast to the bride was proposed by the best man, Jerry Rejman.

For travelling the bride wore a white wool dress, complemented by a corsage of pink carnations, and she wore black accessories.

After spending a week in the Pass, the happy couple will reside in Calgary, where the groom is employed by The Royal Bank of Canada.

Out of town guests for the wedding were from Creston and Fernie B. C.; Lethbridge, Elizkum, Legend, Blairmore, Calgary, Edmonton, Alberta, and Saskatoon, Sask.

Spring Campaign To Urge Car, Truck Maintenance

Proper maintenance of automobiles and trucks will be urged in a campaign, to run through April and May, sponsored nationally by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

CHSC's vehicle safety committee will handle arrangements for the drive.

This is an annual campaign designed to locate and eliminate mechanical faults in vehicles recently emerged from six months of winter operation, and headed for relatively good driving conditions.

Since cars and trucks of today are complex and sensitive machines, the Council believes the campaign's trend is away from its former "Check Your Car" theme. Stronger emphasis will be on — "Have Your Car Checked".

Although dealers and service garages are normally swamped with spring check-up work, they have indicated their intentions of supporting CHSC's car-check campaign.

Experimental Process Of Iron Ore

TORONTO, Ont. — A multi-million dollar research program to evaluate an experimental process for the direct reduction of iron ore using petroleum products will be undertaken by Imperial Oil at its refinery at Dartmouth, N. S.

The company announced today that it will be spending about $13 million over the next three years on this project. A contract has been awarded to the Canadian Bechtel Company for the construction of the refinery of an experimental research plant which will cost about $7 million and employ approximately 35 people.

Construction of the plant will start this spring and it will go into operation early in 1965.

The process, a development of Esso Research and Engineering Co., reduces the iron in iron ores to metallic state. The product can then be used directly in steel-making equipment. Ores from various mining areas will be tested.

Since Canada is the largest exporter of iron ore in the world, success of the new process could lead to plant construction in major ore producing areas.

Changes Announced Re Older Workers

Mr. Terry Robertson, manager of the National Employment Service in Blairmore, has stated the government has announced certain changes concerning the conditions governing the Older Worker Employment and Training Incentive Program.

The changes are designed to enable a greater measure of participation in the program by employers and workers. Originally, the hiring period was November 1st, 1963, to January 31, 1964.

This period has now been extended to March 31st, 1964. The second major change involves the cancellation of the qualifying condition that to be eligible for employment in an approved job, the worker must have exhausted available regular unemployment insurance benefits.

The incentive will be paid to employers for each eligible worker hired, and will be based on 50 per cent of wages or $75 per month which ever is less, and will be paid for a period of 12 months.

Education Week March 1 to 7

The Alberta Teachers' Association will again sponsor a dinner to officially open Education Week on Monday, March 2, 1964. Over 300 guests are expected to attend the dinner, which will be held at the Elks hall, 4702 - 50 avenue, Camrose.

Invitations have been issued to educational and community leaders throughout central Alberta. Also in attendance will be T. F. Rieger, ATA president; Dr. S. C. T. Clarke, ATA executive secretary; Dr. H. T. Coulis, Dean, Faculty of Education, Edmonton; C. H. Linn, president, Alberta Federation of Home and School Associations; Dr. A. Kratzmann, executive director, Alberta School Trustees' Association; and Mrs. H. Sinclair, secretary, Alberta Education Council. The delegates will be welcomed by A. T. McKenzie, mayor of Camrose.

Education Week will be officially proclaimed by the Hon. A. O. Aalborg, Minister of Education. Guest speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Floyd Robinson, director of the Canadian Council for Research in Education. Dr. Robinson is a native of Ontario and holds a Ph.D. degree in psychology from the University of Alberta. From 1959 to 1963, he was research director for the Canadian Teachers' Federation.

Canadian Education Week, the first full week of March is set aside to increase public understanding and appreciation of education, to inform the public of school programs and to reveal the needs and problems as well as to strengthen school-community co-operation during the year. In 1964, Education Week is being observed in the week of March 1 - 7.

The theme for the 1964 Education Week is "Research: A Key to Educational Progress". There seems to be little doubt that investment in educational research can produce the same kind of outstanding progress in education as research has produced in the technological and science fields in the last 50 years.

The Alberta Teachers' Association has sponsored the official opening of Education Week for the past seven years. Previous ceremonies have been held in Lethbridge, Edmonton, Grande Prairie, Red Deer, Medicine Hat, Calgary and St. Paul.

The dinner will be chaired by geographic representative M. W. McDonnell of Camrose, and greetings will be extended by representatives of various organizations interested in education.

A compliment is the pause that refreshes.
